Location: 1553 Dundas St., Unit F, London, Ontario

The Parkwood Institute, Mental Health Care Building is an organization that provides specialized mental health care to individuals living with mental illnesses on both an inpatient and outpatient basis. In addition to providing direct care to individuals living with mental illness, the organization is also actively involved in education of future clinicians and in advancing the research knowledge base. Our work is guided by a recovery-oriented philosophy of care as well as the utilization of treatment and rehabilitation interventions that are based on the best available evidence of their effectiveness to assist individuals in pursuing their life goals. We believe in supporting both the individual and their family/friends throughout their recovery journey.

An exciting opportunity exists within the London Assertive Community Treatment Teams (ACT 2). Leading with a sound understanding of psychosocial rehabilitation and a commitment to recovery-oriented care, the Stepped Care Nurse is an integrated member of the transdisciplinary team. Through client-centred and recovery oriented care the Stepped Care Nurse will assess, plan, develop, coordinate and provide treatment, rehabilitation and support services, in both community and clinic based settings, for individuals within the ACT program as they continue along their recovery journey and transition to less intensive mental health services. A key focus of intervention will revolve around supporting clients in building independence in managing their health care needs, promoting self management skills through a strengths based approach and supporting transition to less intensive models of mental health care support. In addition, the Stepped Care Nurse will focus on building partnerships within the community and collaborate with other service providers as clients move to less intensive services.
